

I an XM subscriber rely on their full and complete services as much as I do any other form of media which provides information to me on a daily basis. The idea of stifling a company which promotes better communication is absurd, and I hope that the powes that be intervene and stop this ridiculous injustice on one of the countrys most innovative service providers.